WITH THE LUCID TRUTH
OF LENS AND FILM

FEATURING THE
COLLEGE OF LIBERAL ARTS
OF THE AMERICAN UNIVERSITY
WASHINGTON, D.C.
THE STAFF OF 1938
PRESENTS

THE STORY OF A GROWING TRADITION OF IDEALS IN THE AMERICAN VIENNA

FOREWORD . . .

MANY mores and customs have grown about The American University already, but in this, its thirteenth, year there has arisen a new credo. Spreading from mind to mind, gathering volume, a dissatisfaction within the student body grew into a plea for a finer adjustment of student-faculty relationships. As naturally as daylight follows darkness, came the call for a restatement of the fundamental concepts of higher education. With the report of the Student-Faculty Committee, a new tradition was born—a tradition of facing problems of undergraduate life on the plane of basic philosophies. . . .

ONLY time can lend prestige to tradition, but time alone is powerless without the leaven of searching minds. AUCOLA is an attempt to portray, as clearly as camera and pen permit, the birth of this new tradition, the fostering parent of mature intellectual individualism.

AUCOLA, copyrighted in 1938 by the business manager, James Donald Pettus, takes you across the broad and growing campus of The American University, to the faculty as they work, or ride their hobbies, to the departing Seniors, and to the Juniors who are just coming into their inheritance. Just as Life takes you to a party, so AUCOLA introduces you to the campus activities in their own environment, to the athletes on the field of competition, and to the fraternity men and women in their social comradeship.

DR. LOIS M. ZUCKER, exponent of the classics, dog-lover, and gardener, came to the College of Liberal Arts in 1925, the year of its founding. And she brought to the student body the largess of a truly cosmopolitan temperament and a broad understanding. Her retirement this year marks the departure of a great personality.

In 1926 DR. DELOS O. KINSMAN came to the University. A kindly disposition, keen sense of humor, and a deep interest in students' problems have endeared him to the school. His retirement at the end of a dozen years of faithful service to high standards deprives The American University of a distinguished scholar.

DEDICATION

IN honor of their long years of sincere service to the progressive ideals of The American University, AUCOLA is humbly dedicated to
DR. LOIS MILES ZUCKER and DR. DELOS OSCAR KINSMAN.

As you wander up onto the campus from the crystal spring, you see, framed in foliage, the first glimpse of the dignity that is Hurst Hall . . .

In a few minutes you stand before the building itself
—massive stone, Ionic columns—a fitting place for the faculty to hold forth; an inspiration for the undergraduates. . . .

Directly across the quadrangle, past the sundial, stands
Battelle Memorial Library—scene of long study sessions and informal social gatherings; the _____nerve center of academic research. . . .

If you proceed toward the chapel from there you presently stand beside the McKinley Building, imposing center of fixed nitrogen research, leased to the government as a laboratory. . . .

You may choose to enter the chapel by the side door
—for there you will get this glimpse of Gothic architectural beauty that is Metropolitan

Methodist Episcopal Church. . . .

English ivy, a broken window mean Hamilton House, typical residence of enthusiastic college males.

The forty men who live on campus sleep, study, and “bull” here. . . .

Coming back to civilization, you approach the Women's Residence Hall, location of the dining hall and social parlor. Characteristic sound—the gentle whisper of the nickelodeon. . . .

Behind the W.R.H. squats the Gymnasium-theatre.
You will remember it for tense basketball games, long hours of play rehearsal, or unique, gala dances. . . .

As you leave to wander back toward crystal spring and the grotto, you may see this near the Greek Theatre,—or you may see something else. . . .

FROM this broad and growing campus turn now to the faculty as they work, or ride their hobbies...

DR. JOSEPH M. M. GRAY

CHANCELLOR GRAY, minister and lecturer, was born in Montgomery, Pennsylvania. His many interests vary from reading about Abraham Lincoln, whom he greatly admires, to watching Dickinson College win at football. Among his other hobbies are collecting books and etchings of every type, and studying the teaching of social science in Germany.

Chancellor Gray's work gives him an opportunity to travel extensively. A year ago he went to Europe and at that time became intensely interested in Germany's political condition.

Among his degrees are B.A., Williamsport Dickinson; B.D., Drew; D.D., Baker; Litt.D., Syracuse; S.T.D., Dickinson.

George Benjamin Woods

Dean of the College and Professor of English

B.A., Northwestern

M.A., Ph.D., Harvard

Cars—latest models only—contract bridge, literature texts, grammars, church work, sports—many interests occupy Dr. Woods' time out of office hours. The Wesley Heights Round Table, a discussion group engrossed in international affairs, can also claim the Dean as one of its most enthusiastic contributors.

As a member of the Board of Trustees of Foundry Methodist Church, Dr. Woods is an important force in the success of church campaigns as well as in young people's groups.

Dr. Woods likes sports, too, and is not only an enthusiastic fan at A.U. games, but also enjoys tennis, archery, swimming, and fishing.

Mary Louise Brown

Dean of Women and Associate Professor of English

B.A., DePauw; M.A., Michigan

Miss Brown's many activities on and off campus leave her little time for the pursuit of hobbies. The girls in the dorm are grateful for her solicitous care, for her attention extends from seeing that they wear rubbers in rainy weather to giving advice.

She likes European travel, and has been abroad many times. Miss Brown attended summer school at Oxford University in England one year.

Although Miss Brown gives a course in Victorian literature, her favorite writers are Keats and Lamb.

She likes out-of-doors, for she enjoys picnicking, helping to beautify the campus on Arbor Day, and riding in the country. Miss Brown is a member of Phi Beta Kappa.

John Edward Bentley, M.A., S.T.B., M.R.E., Th.D.

Professor of Philosophy

To write books, to study people, and to live creatively are Dr. Bentley's aims in life. An authority on philosophy, he spends much time writing and lecturing. Between school terms Dr. Bentley lives at his summer home in Colorado.

A progressive thinker—doesn't believe in final exams (theoretically)—Dr. Bentley successfully conceals from students the exact nature of his own philosophy.

Will Hutchins, B.A., B.F.A.

Professor of Art

Mr. Hutchins has had a widely diversified experience which has included Broadway, coaching and lecturing at Yale and Columbia, and, for a wartime diversion, teaching English for the Italian Army at the University of Bologna. His favorite painter is Giotto, but he paints in a different manner. His hobbies are golf, fishing, and chopping wood in Maine.

The Professor states that his besetting sin is giving too high marks.

Walter Francis Shenton, B.A., M.A., Ph.D.

Professor of Mathematics

Possessing an excellent sense of humor, Dr. Shenton intersperses his math problems with rare wit and irony, and interesting anecdotes of his experiences. One of his most engaging diversions is music. He not only loves symphony, opera, and concerts, but sings excellently himself.

And when he can get away from math and music, Dr. Shenton spends much of his time in studying stars.

Delos Oscar Kinsman, B.L., M.A., Ph.D.

Professor of Economics

Dr. Kinsman has been an educator most of his life. Besides teaching economics at A.U., he has been a high school principal and has taught social science in normal school.

He was once tax expert with the Wisconsin Tax Commission and drafted the Wisconsin Income Tax Law, the first successful law of its kind in the United States.

Wesley M. Gewehr, Ph.B., M.A., Ph.D.

Professor of History

Dr. Gewehr has traveled widely through Europe and the Orient. In 1925-26, he was exchange professor at Tsinghua University, Peiping. He finds time to cultivate roses in his garden in Wesley Heights and to sustain his part of the famous history department tennis team.

He has written several history texts of which the most famous is The Great Awakening in Virginia.

C. Henry Leineweber, Ph.D.

Professor of German

Poetry and languages are the talented hobbies of Dr. C. Henry Leineweber, world traveler. He has written several books of philosophical poems in both English and German.

At his command are the languages in the Romance, Teutonic, Slavic, Classical, and Asiatic Groups, besides a dialect of the Wisconsin Indians, who live near his birthplace.

Aubert Bain Potorf, B.A., B.D., Th.M., Th.D., D.D.

Professor of Religion

Dr. Aubert Bain Potorf, head of the religion department, devotes his time and interest to church work and young people.

Dr. Potorf came to The American University from Hamline University, where he taught for eleven years. He serves as a member of the Chapel, Athletic, Student Social, and Vocational Committees. He also is a counselor of the Oxford Fellowship and Student Christian Association.

Leon C. Marshall, B.A., LL.D., B.A., M.A.

Professor of Political Economy

Dr. Leon Carroll Marshall is a professor of Economics at the Graduate School and professor of Social Science in the College of Liberal Arts. Outside of his academic goals, his great ambition is to play the cello. Planting azaleas, rhododendron, and laurel is his sparetime hobby.

Dr. Marshall was formerly dean of the School of Social Service Administration at the University of Chicago.

Ben A. Arneson, B.A., M.A., Ph.D.

Visiting Professor of Political Science

Dr. Ben A. Arneson, professor of Political Science, finds that the students at The American University have an unusually intelligent and vital interest in politics. He enjoys reading tomes on political science and light fiction. In moments of relaxation he works in his garden, "no straight rows or scientific methods, and lots of weeds."

Eugene N. Anderson, B.A., Ph.D.

Professor of European History

Though he claims not to have traveled much in the United States, Dr. Eugene Anderson has thrice journeyed abroad for study in Germany and France.

Dr. Anderson is very fond of German music and modern art. His most outstanding book is entitled The First Moroccan Crisis. He was honored by appointment as Chairman of the Program Committee of the National Historical Society of America.

William Bultman Holton, B.S., M.S., Ph.D.

Professor of Chemistry

It's difficult to catch Dr. Holton unawares for he always has a ready answer on the tip of his tongue—probably why lab is so much fun.

Dr. Holton likes sports, for he takes an enthusiastic part in faculty volleyball games on campus and is fond of fishing. In the latter interest he is president of the Bethesda Isaak Walton League.

Theodore Andersson, B.A., M.A., Ph.D.

Professor of Romance Languages

Swedish, Italian, Russian, French, Spanish, all languages are an absorbing field to Dr. Andersson.

Dr. Andersson, a Yankee, received his B.A., M.A., and Ph.D. degrees at Yale, where he remained as a teacher for ten years. Travel and study abroad, the theatre, tennis, reading and his twins are a few of Dr. Andersson's other interests.

Glenn Francis Rouse, B.A., Ph.D.

Associate Professor of Physics

Noted for his sense of humor which leads him to perform an occasional practical joke on his lab students, Dr. Glenn Francis Rouse applies his knowledge of physics to his home carpenter shop.

He enjoys sports, taking an active part in the faculty volleyball games on campus, and in baseball games in the summer. Dr. Rouse and his family usually travel in Iowa during the summer.

Edward William Engel, B.S., M.A., Ph. D.

Associate Professor of Chemistry

Edward William Engel, of Amsterdam, New York, one of our two eminent chemistry professors, graduated from Union College of New York, and received his M.A. and Ph.D. at Princeton, where he spent three years as a teaching fellow. He is a member of Sigma Xi and the American Chemical Society.

His favorite hobby is photography, and his favorite sports are golf, volleyball, and baseball.

Lowell F. Huelster, B.A., M.A., Ph.D.

Assistant Professor of Economics

Witty and versatile, Dr. Lowell Huelster is a brilliant economist, a member of Phi Beta Kappa, and the Honorary Social Science Fraternity, Pi Gamma Mu.

An ardent devotee of "See America First" movement, he recently made several auto tours of America. Once a member of an itinerant minstrel show, Dr. Huelster's love of travel and talent for vaudeville now find expression in home moving pictures.

Merritt C. Bachelder, B.A., M.A., Ph.D.

Assistant Professor of English

Dr. Merritt C. Batchelder is an authority on 13th and 16th century English literature and its influences.

His interest in things English extends even to his choice of a pet, for his bulldog, Timmie, is thoroughly English in both disposition and descent. For relaxation Dr. Batchelder likes to work in the garden of his new home and to "rough it."

Earl Aubrey Dennis, B.A., Ph.D.

Assistant Professor of Biology

Dr. Earl A. Dennis' diversion is hunting lizards for experimental purposes, but aside from seeking the haunts of these reptiles, he enjoys tennis, concerts, and theatre.

Extremely modest, Dr. Dennis finally admitted that he has published scientific articles in Anatomical Record and Physical Zoology. On campus, Dr. Dennis is a member of the Student Faculty Committee, which he claims "seems to meet every twenty minutes."

Richard H. Bauer, B.A., M.A., Ph.D.

Assistant Professor of History

Tall, quiet, a sparkling sense of humor, Dr. Bauer is the champion tennis player of the faculty.

He spends his time going to the symphonies and Town Hall, writing books,—and drinking hot chocolates. He has published a life of Ludwig Windthorst, the greatest opponent of Bismarck; he is Secretary of the American Association of University Professors, and a member of the American History Association.

Robert See Sackett, B.A., Ph.D.

Assistant Professor of Psychology

As a relief from teaching students during the winter and experimenting with white rabbits during vacation, Dr. Sackett enjoys golf, tennis, and swimming immensely. He has published articles in the Journal of General Psychology.

A member of the American Psychology Association, Phi Beta Kappa, Sigma Xi, Chi Xi, and the National Honorary Psychology Fraternity, Dr. Sackett is a "Yale man" of a quiet manner.

John W. McConnell, B.A., Ph.D.

Assistant Professor of Economics and Sociology

The name American University comes easily to Mr. McConnell's lips for he taught at American University in Egypt for three years. He was also on the research staff of the Institute of Human Relations at Yale for four years, studying unemployment.

Mr. McConnell likes any sport but golf, and found opportunity to exercise this liking at a boys' camp in New York last summer.

Cornelia M. Cotton, B.A., M.A.

Instructor in Biology

In addition to instructing students in biology, Miss Cotton—merely as a sideline—likes to keep house. Miss Cotton includes gardening and interior decorating under housekeeping; she extends her interests to planning parties for American University student organizations.

Miss Cotton has attended several international congresses. Her hobby, traveling, has taken her to Mexico, South America, and the West Indies.

Donald Weeks, B.A., Ph.D.

Instructor in English

Long hours spent in art galleries, in reading rooms, at concerts, conversations on his diverse travels, an excellent library containing many rare editions, a galaxy of records, both symphony and swing—all place Dr. Weeks among connoisseurs of the fine arts.

He is reputed to be a clever punster, a champion of student rights, and a hard marker.

Paul Smith, B.A., M.A.

Instructor in English

Mr. Paul Smith was educated at Dickinson College in Carlisle, Pennsylvania. He is a member of Phi Kappa Psi social fraternity, and also of Omicron Delta Kappa, national honorary extra-curricular activities fraternity for men, on the American University campus; serves as faculty advisor for The Eagle. As a sideline, "Smitty" collects antiques and enjoys ice skating.

James McLain, B.A.

Instructor in Choral Music

Besides his love for music and for Bach in particular, Mr. McLain is an art gallery fanatic.

In addition to teaching and directing the chorus here at A.U., he is organist and director of music in Hagerstown, Maryland. Mr. McLain also gives private music lessons and is himself a soloist of distinction. He admits enjoying chorus rehearsals.

Louis J. Cabrera, B.A., M.A.

Instructor in Spanish and Italian

Louis Jose Cabrera, professor of Spanish and Italian at The American University, was born in Puerto Rico.

Senor Cabrera believes that variety is the spice of life. In his spare time he writes and hikes. He likes music and dramatics. The pastime he enjoys most, however, is travel, especially on salt water.

Nadia Zadolin

Instructor in French

Mademoiselle Zadolin, born in Russia, educated in Switzerland, and at present teaching French in America, has had many interesting experiences.

Mademoiselle has taught at the Connecticut College for Women at New London, Connecticut, and at Gunston Hall in Washington, D.C. She says she has really enjoyed her first year at The American University. Her hobbies are folk-dancing and dramatics.

John W. Crawford, B.A., M.A.

Instructor in Speech

For his own amusement, Mr. Crawford likes to draw. He also enjoys a good game of tennis. And all the antique shops are familiar to him, for much of his time is spent in the search of antiques and old coins.

Mr. Crawford attended the Experimental College at the University of Wisconsin for two years, followed by two years at Northwestern University.

Richard Russel Hutcheson, B.S., M.A.

Instructor in English and Speech

Mr. Hutcheson is just completing his first year as a teacher at The American University. Previously he taught at Peabody College, Tennessee, and in Atlanta, Georgia. Speech is the phase of his work which most interests him, and his Speech Clinic has corrected speech faults of many students. His home is in Pennsylvania, and there he has time to indulge his hobby, dramatics.

Brent D. Allinson, B.A., M.A.

Teaching Fellow in Political Science

A member of the Political Science department, naturally Dr. Allinson takes great interest in world affairs and politics. Following this interest, he is at present chairman of the Washington Council of International Relations.

Quite apart from his enthusiasm for politics, he is fond of poetry, and has published a book of war poems entitled Youth and the Singing Shadows.

Irma Zink, B.A., B.L.S.

Librarian

Versatile is the only term which can describe Miss Zink's varied interests. She is a connoisseur of cheese popcorn and Kirsten Flagstad, of steak roasts and symphonies.

Reading occupies most of her time, as it is for her an avocation as well as a vocation.

Miss Zink is a native of South Dakota, but her teaching experiences have taken her from high schools to Hawaii.

Joseph Reed Routten, B.A., M.A.

Teaching Fellow in Political Science

When not teaching here, Mr. Joseph Routten spends most of his time at the graduate school where he is working on his doctor's degree. He is interested in newspaper work, and contributes a weekly column on international affairs, One Hundred Years Ago, to the Washington Post.

As a diversion from European governments and political science, Mr. Routten enjoys swimming.

Louis Clair Hunter, B.A., M.A., Ph.D.

Professor of History

Little is seen of Dr. Hunter, for he does most of his teaching at the graduate school, and when on campus he may be found correcting exams in the library stack room.

Dr. Hunter has contributed articles on history to several newspapers.

In summer he likes to roam over the Green and White Mountain ranges in New England.

Jessie Mary Ferguson, B.A., B.S., M.A., Ph.D.

Associate Professor of Education

Born in Ohio and an ardent admirer of her home state, Dr. Ferguson has obtained much of her teaching experience in Ohio schools. She has written several magazine articles on education and is co-author of The Student's Guide to Efficient Study. For outside interests Dr. Ferguson likes reading, music, flowers, motoring, birds, and handwork. She is a member of Phi Mu Epsilon and Pi Lambda Theta.

Lois Miles Zucker, B.A., M.A., Ph.D.

Assistant Professor of Greek and Latin

When Dr. Zucker is not teaching Latin, Greek, German, or Ancient History she is frequently found out of doors. Much of her time is spent in the garden of her home. She enjoys most the English poetry of Keats and Shelley although she is enthusiastic about all literature and music. Her travels have taken her around the world—and back again.

Ruberta M. Olds, Ph.B., M.A.

Assistant Professor of Spanish

Miss Old's career as a teacher of modern languages began during the four years she spent in Santiago, Chile, as a teacher in the government schools.

At present her work keeps her from pursuing any hobby seriously, but if there were more time, music above everything else would claim her attention.

Alton A. Lindsey, B.S., Ph.D.

Instructor in Botany and Chemistry

Dr. Lindsey has done things we only dream about. He accompanied Admiral Byrd on his second Antarctic Expedition. For two summers he was a ranger naturalist in Mt. Rainier National Park, Washington. Several summers were spent searching for aquatic plants for the New York State Biological Survey.

Dr. Lindsey received his B.S. at Allegheny College and his Ph.D. at Cornell. He was recently elected a member of the executive board of the American Polar Society.

Louis T. Merrill, B.A., M.A., Ph.D.

Instructor in History

Journalism has long been one of Dr. Merrill's main activities, for not only did he write editorials for a newspaper in Milwaukee, but also he wrote articles for the United States News on Congress.

Dr. Merrill taught at Bard College for a number of years before coming to A.U. As an after-school recreation, he plays tennis.

Clarence L. Hodge, B.Ed., M.A.

Teaching Fellow in Political Science

Mr. Hodge has recently completed his doctor's thesis on the T.V.A., The National Experimentation of Regionalism. From Carbondale, Illinois, he received his B.S. and M.A. degrees at the University of Illinois where he was a football letter man. Outside of classes, Mr. Hodge works at the Library of Congress, and when time permits, he enjoys swimming, tennis, and football.

Now to the departing seniors, and to the juniors who are just coming into their inheritance . . .

The Class of 1938

FIELD DAY of Freshman year the Class of '38 defeated its Sophomore overlords. Jane Getz was the first Freshman ever to debate on the varsity squad. Lew Frank became an assistant editor of The Eagle during this first year. In the December play, "Candida," two newcomers had leading roles. When grades came out, the Class of '38 had fourteen members on the honor roll—almost twice as many as any other class. The Freshman team was the only girls' hockey team which did not meet defeat during the season; and Bee Craig made the all-D.C. hockey team.

During the Sophomore year Thompson and Roberts carried on the dramatic tradition of the class, acting in "Is Life Worth Living?" Three members of the class were assistant editors on The Eagle, thirteen worked on THE AUCOLA, Bernie Carroll proved to be the school's most popular musician, and Ruth Humphreys, social chairman, made a big success of the Sophomore dance.

By the third year the promising sportsmen proved their mettle. Invaluable on the football squad were: Hanawalt, Applegate, Carlo, Hansborough, Winslow, Dick, and Britton. Edwards, Harris, and Lee shone on the basketball court. Harris and Lee also were tennis stars.

Members of the class directed many of the campus activities, heading nine organizations, including THE AUCOLA and The Eagle; the editorship of The Eagle was given for the first time to a Junior, Frank Diggs.

The Class of '38 entered its Senior year with Olin Smith as president—his second year in this office; and Kathryn Taylor as vice-president—her fourth year in this position.

The men were victorious in the interclass touch football, volleyball, and basketball tournaments.

Participating in dramatics were Thompson, Johnson, Christie, and Lee, who played the difficult part of Hamlet in the school's twelfth Shakespearian production.

The Class of 1939

TRUE to tradition, the Juniors have given the Senior Class some close competition in extra-curricular activities. Taking places on the Student Council this year were Charlie Stewart, Dorothy Loftis, and Sam Keker. Sammy likewise was elected to the regional executive council at the N.S.F.A. Conference this winter.

The publications staffs listed Nellie Strong as editor of The Eyrie and James Donald Pettus as business manager of THE AUCOLA with fourteen Juniors assisting on the staffs of these three publications.

Debate, this year, claimed Walter Bastian, Donald Creech, Norman Leonard, Charles Stewart, Eleanor Belden, and Mary Louise Klaas. Prominent in Dramat were Catherine Knockey, Dorothy Loftis, Nellie Strong, Eliza Goddard, Sam Keker, Kimber Shoop, and Lansing Hall.

Athletic interests are mainly football and track, it would seem. Football claimed Emerson Bartlett, Sammy Maize, Hal Toner, Kimber Shoop, and Pete Sitnik—with Sammy Maize being awarded the “most valuable player” cup by the Washington Touchdown Club. Bartlett played basketball also, and participated in track along with Jim Applegate, Gus Hertz, and Glenn Sweigart.

The Chorus ranks were swelled by Dorothy Loftis, Virginia Omo, Muriel Bain, Victor Purse, Donald Creech, Nellie Strong.

Dormitory house governments saw Hal Toner as president of Ham House, with Emerson Bartlett assisting on House Council. Constance Cooley, Eleanor Belden, and Charlotte Wells took an active part on House Council for W.R.H.*

The Junior Prom, at the Washington Hotel, April 22nd, was an outstanding social event of the season, closely followed by the “Sweetheart Serenade” on February 12th.

Other positions of miscellaneous type included Kimber Shoop in the Student-Faculty Athletic Committee, Dick Callahan in the newly organized Student-Faculty Adjustment Committee, and Wilbur Parker as Student Comptroller.

As Freshmen we obeyed; as Sophomores we commanded; as Juniors we worked; as Seniors—who knows?

Sophomore Class History

TRADITIONAL rivalry between Frosh and Sophs, including the regular series of sidewalk decorations, sit-down strikes, and Hell Night, all promptly and effectively subdued by Dud Rogers and his rules committee, commenced the class year.

Activities were continued at Christmas time, when the group provided clothes, food, and money for a needy family.

As its social contribution to the college calendar, the class produced something novel in dances, a Barnyard Swing, with guests dancing in gingham and overalls amid an informal atmosphere of slides and hay.

Outstanding in publications this year were Sophomores Helen Miller as associate editor and Arthur Lawson as advertising manager of THE AUCOLA, with Beryl Reed and Frances Brewster on the staff, and Charles Laughton upholding his position as assistant editor of The Eagle. Ruth Sherier was associate editor of Newsnotes and Frances Brewster was a member of the staff.

With Jack Gendron and Douglas Parmentier playing leads in both Dramat productions, Dud Rogers and George Brown holding their own in varsity football and basketball, the Sophs can certainly claim a large part in extracurricular life.

WITH the "Big Apple" and the "Merry-go-round Broke Down," with boys "sounding off" and girls with no "makeup," for four weeks the Freshman Class was subjected to the Sophomore regime with Dud Rogers as a dictator and Hewitt and Brown as his able advisers. Making a fight for freedom, the Freshmen staged a quick revolt, and fought their way from Hurst Hall to the library. But the real democracy did not come until the burial of the green tags, following which the Freshmen proved their true merit by entering whole-heartedly into college activities.

Football players were John Jablonsky, John Bower, Hugo Schulze, Bob Hall, and Irwin Krasnoff. The basketball team had such men as Ernest Webb, Hamilton Gewehr, John Bower, George Riffenbary, and Hugo Schulze. Hugo especially distinguished himself by making the city all-college team.

The publications are also well represented by Freshmen. Writing for The Eagle are Kendall Angus, Addison Clay, Frances Cruikshank, Mary Curry, Gordon Haines, Mary Hudson, Bill McClure, Pearce Raynor, and Sarah Anne Rapp. Distribution manager for The Eyrle is Mildred Palmer. On the staff of THE AUCOLA are Adelaide Bushong, Sarah Anne Rapp, Edward Fowler, and Mary Hudson.

Dramatic members of the class are Virginia Hubbs and Charles Davidson, who both took part in the play "Getting Married."

There were two big social events of the year. The dance in April was a marvel of rhythm and swing. And the Freshmen should be particularly proud of its party which it gave in February for the new Freshmen entering college. Such a welcome has never before been given to the new students, and it is hoped that it will become one of the traditions of the college.

AUCOLA now takes you to the campus activities in their own environment . . .

THIS year's Student Council activities have centered about reorganization of student affairs in their relation to the faculty and their status on campus. A Student-Faculty Committee was set up to act as a medium through which conflicts and complaints of both faculty and students might be settled. This committee was composed of Dr. Bauer, chairman; Dr. Zucker, and Dr. Dennis, of the faculty; and Pauline Schloesser, Richard Callahan, and Gene Johnson, representing the Student Body.

Newsnotes, A.U.'s first news sheet, was a result of President Frank's plan to coordinate and combine the methods of making announcements to the student body. Mary Aiken served as editor with Ruth Sherier and Florence Yeager as assistants.

This year's Student Assembly programs have been notable features with many speakers of prominence addressing the students on subjects including birth control, C.I.O., and neutrality.

A project for establishing a Student Union on campus for "get-togethers" during leisure moments was backed by the Student Council. To Bill Thompson goes the credit for getting things started.

The Eagle

UNDER the direction of Carol Laise, the second woman editor, The Eagle in its thirteenth year of publications has pursued and developed the policy inaugurated last year of publishing large-sized issues. The rather unusual circumstances of having a woman editor was further heightened by the fact that the business end of the newspaper was also handled by a feminine manager—Kathryn Taylor.

The attempt has been to improve the quality of the articles rather than to innovate. Yet, a place was found for such new features as Betsy Winter's "Americana," a culture column, Gene Johnson's "Pertinent Politics," a commentary on current affairs, and a sports column, "Spotlighting the Sports," to replace Lew Frank's "Tidbits," which moved to the editorial page as the student government organ. Choice contributions were received in the form of guest editorials from prominent Washingtonians, and a spicy column from Alumnus Eddie Hopper.

Due to the daily appearance of Newsnotes, the emphasis, of necessity, has been shifted to feature material. This growing inability of a bi-weekly Eagle to perform its true function as a newspaper has led to a consideration of reorganization, the results of which may establish a new publication set-up at The American University.

THE AUCOLA, annual publication of the student body, is an all-college project, published by a Governing Board under the direction of the Student Council. This board chooses the editor and business manager each year. The board also determines the financial policy, requiring that the budget be balanced each year. This organization is designed to keep THE AUCOLA a permanent organization with experienced people working on it. The editor and business manager are Juniors during the year they serve, but the other members of the staff may be drawn from any class in the college.

The Governing Board consists of the present editor, present business manager, past editor, past business manager, faculty adviser, faculty auditor, and student president.

The Eyrie

THE EYRIE embarked on its third year as a thirty-six-page, two-column, liberalized publication. For the first time student-fostered artistic photography was introduced, and more varied contributions were encouraged. Every effort was made to exploit native talent in all its literary forms, and to give The Eyrie a journalistic appeal for all types of students. Essays, short stories, politics, poetry, parodies, have all made their appearance. Guest-writing from the faculty is one of The Eyrie's more recent innovations.

Omicron Epsilon Pi

OMICRON EPSILON PI, local chapter of the College Poetry Society of America, has this year been signally honored.

Verses by Mary Pender and Grace Lee were published in the Guild Anthology. In the local collegiate poetry contest sponsored by the American Association of University Women, Nellie Strong placed third, while Betsy Winter and Gordon Jowers received honorable mention. Several members' poems appeared in College Verse, the official magazine of the fraternity.

A series of special Sunday afternoon meetings featured talks by Dr. Batchelder, Dr. Weeks, faculty adviser, and professors from neighboring universities.

The officers of Omicron Epsilon Pi are: President, Elizabeth Morse; vice-president-treasurer, Betsy Winter; recording secretary, Gordon Jowers; corresponding secretary, Elizabeth Lawton. Active members are: Erva Barger, Barbara Conningham, Jean Evans, Hazel Horner, Frederick Horton, Grace Lee, Mary Pender, Sarah Anne Rapp, Jean Sartwell, Nellie Strong, Jean Thienes, Elaine Tenney, Charles Turner.

Dramat

THIS year Dramat has again carried out the tradition of comedy in the fall and Shakespeare in the spring. The selection of plays was, as always, determined by a desire for variety and also by the demands of the members of Dramat. The group works each year for higher literary and artistic values, and the choice of plays is made with this in mind.

Professor Hutchins has great faith in the capacity of students as actors and an unshakable conviction in the benefit of student production to a college education. The personnel is constantly growing because of this sympathetic attitude, and under Professor Hutchins' excellent leadership and direction, Dramat has advanced rapidly this year.

Bill Thompson

In the spring of last year Dramat presented Shakespeare's "Two Gentlemen of Verona." The principal male parts, those of Valentine and Proteus, were taken by William Thompson and Sherman Lee, while the two heroines, Julia and Silvia, were portrayed by Catherine Knockey and Jean Miller. The play was produced in excellent taste, as nearly as possible in the Elizabethan manner with fine results. It was thoroughly enjoyed by an unusually large audience.

This fall "Getting Married," a high comedy by George Bernard Shaw, was presented. The cast, including William Thompson, Catherine Knockey, Eugene Johnson, Virginia Christie, Samuel Keker, Nellie Strong, and Jack Gendron, gave equally fine portrayals in this unusual comedy where the action was continuous—no break whatsoever.

This spring, in the usual Shakespeare tradition, "Hamlet" will be produced.

Dramat's officers, elected once yearly, are William Thompson, president; Nellie Strong, vice-president; Catherine Knockey, secretary; and Sam Keker, treasurer. This staff is always elected at the end of the year after the final performance. The executive staff of one production is always selected by the director.

ADDING immeasurably to the atmosphere to be created, the College Orchestra played appropriate program music for the fall dramatic production, "Getting Married," the Shakespearean play last spring, "Two Gentlemen of Verona," and this spring for "Hamlet."

The repertoire this year has been confined to small orchestral arrangements of the best in music, including the modern as well as the classical composers. The "Three B's" of music—Bach, Beethoven, and Brahms—have been studied, as have Handel, Haydn, Mozart, Gounod, Wagner, Chopin, Pienre, Rubenstein, Strauss, and others.

Sight-reading, a type of practice that confers maximum benefits in orchestral work, has been given special emphasis. Student players are thus trained to sharpen their musical perception, and are given an understanding of the ultimate ability of quick conception of composer's ideas.

The College Orchestra will contribute to the regular Commencement Entertainment Night, and will provide music for the graduation exercises.

WITH interest in its activities stimulated by members of the faculty, the band went ahead this year with the policy adopted in 1936 of playing music of improved quality and high musical standards. Special arrangements of classical and modern works have been studied, with emphasis placed on the composers' broad conceptions and the most practicable and effective means of expressing them.

"Scream Your Challenge!" was composed by the director early in the fall as a theme for the band during the football season. Gaining recognition, it was played by the Capitol Theater Orchestra in a "Football Overture" as the lead song in a medley of local college tunes.

In addition to its regular appearances at football and basketball games, the band presented a program at one of the student assemblies, consisting of Lamar Stringfield's overture "Cripple Creek" from the "Southern Mountains Suite," several other concert pieces, and a number of popular marches.

Chorus

THE Choral Groups have added another year to a long series of successes. The three organizations have been heard in numerous churches in the city and have always been well received.

The Mixed Chorus, the most active of the vocal groups, set up an enviable record for itself. Besides functioning as the Chapel Choir and giving two entire choral chapels, the chorus appeared before the American Association of University Women, the Women's Guild of American University, and sang in several grammar and high school programs in Washington. On February 24th a concert was given in Pitman, New Jersey. The chorus was highly acclaimed in both places. An invitation to sing in Wanamaker's store in Philadelphia during Holy Week was accepted. On April 27th the chorus and the two Glee Clubs cooperated to present the formal Spring Concert in the Assembly Room. This

A men's team, composed of Donald Creech, Wesley Sarles, and Charles Stewart, travelled through Maryland, Pennsylvania, and Ohio and met representatives of Mount Union College, University of Pittsburgh, University of Akron, University of Wooster, Western Reserve University, and Ohio Wesleyan University. In addition to return contests with many of these schools, the men's schedule also included Leland Stanford University, Wayne University, Allegheny College, Lebanon Valley College, and the University of Florida.

SPEAKER'S BUREAU

The formation of the Student Speaker's Bureau to provide community clubs and organizations with student speakers marks the culmination of another valuable college project supported through the Speech Department. Since its organization late in the first semester, the bureau has provided entertainment composed of open forums, illustrated lectures, panel discussions, debates, readings, and solos for more than twenty groups in Maryland, Washington, and vicinity.

The management of the bureau includes Harry Amtower, manager; Mary Bateman, secretary; Charles Stewart, director of publicity; and John W. Crawford, director. Donald Creech, Jane Getz, Paul Lentz, Pauline Schloesser, and Mabel Wright are the additional members of the committee for arrangements.

Student Christian Association

CLIMAXED by the annual banquet and installation at which occasion Senator Thomas of Utah was the featured speaker, the Student Christian Association during 1937-38 continued its policy of acquainting students with various creeds and religions. This was done by means of talks and discussions led by noted religious men and by visitations to nearby places of worship. Among the churches visited were the Catholic Monastery, and Elder Michaux's famous congregation.

During the last week before Christmas vacation the S.C.A. initiated a collection taken up at the regular chapel service to make Christmas a happier time for some of the needy families of Washington. It is hoped that this will become a tradition.

The usual social program was also carried on, highlighted by Freshman Week, a Hallowe'en treasure hunt, the fall picnic, and the annual observance of Mother's and Dad's Days.

The usual special services were held in the Metropolitan Church. Thanksgiving and Christmas Vespers and Easter Sunrise Services were all well attended.

This year there has been an increased feeling among the students that the S.C.A. puts on an interesting, informative program and therefore has a definite place among the strongest of campus organizations.

In connection with Holy Week the Student Christian Association held Sunrise Services on Maundy Thursday and Good Friday in the Metropolitan Church. Lenonard Harris was in charge of the Thursday program, with Dr. A. B. Potorf as the speaker and Betty Ann Sewell was the soloist. On Friday, Marshall Sanders conducted the service and Reverend Keese addressed the students. The women's quartet sang.

As the last program of its visits to Washington churches, the Student Christian Association sponsored a visit to the Franciscan Monastery on April 28th.

The French Club

THE French Club started off an auspicious year with Douglas Parmentier as president, Claire Aubry as vice-president, and Rene Beard as secretary-treasurer.

One of the highlights of the year was the presentation of the one-act play, "Bonnes Resolutions," with Melvin Fox, Laura Talbott, Lloyd Schneider, and Josephine Jolliffe in the principal roles. The cast entered into the spirit of the comedy and cleverly enacted the parts of a quarrelsome family, typical in any country. Everyone enjoyed both the play and the refreshments following.

The club was fortunate in securing M. Frank Andre Liotard, former member of the faculty, to address the group in one of the most interesting meetings of the year.

A picnic sponsored by the club on March 22nd climaxed this year's activities. Meeting at the W.R.H., a large group went to Spring Valley and enjoyed the food and fun there.

Much of the success of the club is due to the willing cooperation of Mlle. Zadolin and Dr. Andersson.

THE Spanish Club, in an attempt to establish better relations between North and South America, has sponsored as speaker for each of its meetings some representative of a South American country. Alice Massey, an American University student, spoke on her country, Argentina, followed at the next meeting by three Brazilian explorers who described, with the aid of slides, their trip to the United States via the Andes and Mexico. The series was completed by a talk on American opportunities in Chile by the Chilean consul, Francisco Araibia.

At Christmas, a play was presented by the second year Spanish classes with readings from the Bible by Señor Cabrera. A joint meeting of the Spanish Club and I.R.C. was held in January at which Señora Taylor-Burke, a member of the Flying Caravan, spoke on the South American personality.

Gus Welch

ATHLETIC DIRECTOR

AT the beginning of the football season, The American University placed at the head of its athletic department the former All-American quarterback from Carlisle. From the beginning Gus impressed football men with his sincere love of the game and its meaning.

Always optimistic, Gus was not disillusioned by defeat, but continued to bring out the best in his charges. A firm believer in individuality, Gus made his plays of the type which gave players a chance to use their own initiative.

Gus cannot be criticized for not producing a constantly winning team. Realizing the necessity of a few men carrying the burden of the entire season, he plans to shorten the season next year, enabling players to play the game of which they are capable.

Knowing the handicaps of coaching in a small school, Gus has turned to American because he believes in sports for the benefit of the individuals playing them.

BRIDGEWATER October 2, 1937

Taking the field with high hopes, the largest team in the history of American University was out for victory. The game was but a few minutes old when the Eagles struck for the first time. They marched down the field, with a display of power and drive, in spite of the hot sun and the plucky Bridgewater eleven. The appearance of several of Coach Welch's plays was baffling to the visitors as several long gains were made by the use of them. Early in the second half the Varsity again pushed over a touchdown and added the extra point.

Score: Bridgewater, 0; A.U., 13.

ST. JOHN'S October 9, 1937

With one victory to their score, the Eagles looked forward to taking the Johnnies for the first time in their history. Our Varsity outweighed them and pre-game predictions gave us the game. As the game got under way there was no doubt as to which team was superior. The Eagles scored early in the first period and converted the extra point. A few minutes later they were back again at the goal line, only to be held on the one-yard line by the stubborn St. John's line. With the game in the closing minutes, the visitors completed two long passes that resulted in a score. Their kick for the extra point was good and the game ended in a tie.

Score: St. John's, 7; A.U., 7.

MT. ST. MARY'S October 16, 1937

Journeying up to the Mount St. Mary's game the boys were going to meet an undefeated team, that finished their season by defeating many colleges of football rank. Playing minus three of their regulars, the Eagles were hampered in their running attack, and the big, blue Varsity which opposed them, by virtue of superior weight, pushed over three touchdowns. The game was featured by the fight which the Eagles put up in the second half, as they held the hill-toppers at a standstill, then gained on them consistently, but were unable to score.

Score: Mt. St. Mary's, 21; A.U., 0.

WILLIAM AND MARY October 23, 1937

The morale of the team was low as we journeyed to William and Mary minus four of our regulars, and being hampered additionally by being unable to use four-year men. The Eagles were completely outclassed in every department of the game by the big green and silver clad opponents. Outweighed man for man the Welch men had difficulty in stopping the line plays of the opponents as they charged down the field. Coach Welch was unable to rally the boys as the lack of substitutes made it impossible. A last minute rally was stopped two yards short of the goal, as the team went down to defeat.

DICKINSON COLLEGE October 30, 1937

The Eagles journeyed up to Carlisle, Pennsylvania, where the fame of the feats of their coach as an "All-American" still exists. Their hopes were high as they entered the game; that spirit was reflected by their actions as they stopped the "Big Red" varsity in its tracks. The line play of the small Eagles was superb as they stopped the vicious plunges. Our opponents then took to the air, throwing forwards, then laterals, with which the small Eagle backs were unable to cope. The lack of substitutes was very noticeable as Dickinson used three teams in completing the defeat.

Score: Dickinson, 40; A.U., 0.

RANDOLPH-MACON November 6, 1937

The highly praised Yellow Jackets came to the field with a veteran team. Their teamwork was the factor of the game, as the Eagles could not cope with their offense. Using power with deception, the Randolph-Macon men had little difficulty in pushing over their touchdowns. Outplayed but not outfought, the Eagles turned the tide and by sheer determination pushed over a touchdown despite the powerful Yellow Jacket line. A second drive was then started, but was soon halted as the visitors put in fresh reserves. The closing minutes saw another attempt to score that was halted by the end of the game.

Score: Randolph-Macon, 25; A.U., 7.

JOHNS HOPKINS November 13, 1937

The Eagles met the Hopkins men in a sea of mud. Both teams were greatly handicapped by the condition of the ball, but the inspired Hopkins men were out to win what may have been their last football game. Using straight power football, they shoved over two touchdowns before the Welch men could retaliate with one. Spurred on by this rebuke, the opponents doubled their efforts, which culminated in two more touchdowns and a decisive victory. Lacking in scoring power, the Eagles did not lack in fight, as the Hopkins men knew they had been in a tough football game when they left the field.

Score: Johns Hopkins, 25; A.U., 6.

HAMPDEN-SYDNEY November 25, 1937

Hampden-Sydney, after enjoying a very successful season, was not to be denied a final victory. In previous seasons the Eagles have given the Bernier-coached men some hard-fought battles, and they came to us with a determination to win in spite of the fact that the Eagles are usually at their best against them. This was not true to form, as numerous injuries and lack of substitutes kept the Eagles from reaching their accustomed spirit. The game was a hard-fought battle and the score is no indication of the efforts extended by the A.U. men.

Score: Hampden-Sydney, 19; A.U., 0.

Staff Cassell

Stafford Cassell, B.A.

THE former American University sports star has returned to his Alma Mater as head basketball and assistant football coach. His work in football made him a friend of the entire football squad. With the football season completed, Staff settled into his favorite game, basketball. His excellence on the court as a player is now being overshadowed by his prowess as a coach. The school and the sports fans were all aroused at the victory over Catholic University in the second game of the season.

Working with the old men and several new men, Staff welded them into an efficient machine that looked like the best team American University had had in several years. His confidence in the players and his sincere love of the game won him the respect of the whole squad, and instilled in them the will to win, which enabled him to finish the season with one of the best records made in our basketball history. With Staff at the head of our team, we at The American University can look forward to many cleanly played, hard-fought basketball games in the future.

Basketball

COACH STAFF CASSELL called the first practice before football season was over. Here he began the work which was to play a large part in the success of the season. Using Bartlett, Brown, Hickey, and Rogers as a nucleus, Staff started the team in action. He then issued a call to the student body for players and went through the applicants by having them play on the junior varsity, and promoting those who displayed talent. In this way Staff placed five Freshmen on the squad, who promise to do big things before their basketball days at American University are over.

With the team facing one of the most difficult schedules in years, Staff hurried the boys into shape and taught them his system of offense. This system consisted of a fast break, and a corner cut and block type play which the boys soon mastered. Their use of it, despite the loss of Hickey, gave them the first game with relatively little difficulty. Staff allowed the fellows to use their own initiative in the games and was always open to suggestions. This spirit of cooperation and his appreciation of the players gave rise to a teamwork that is possible only through understanding teammates.

Throughout the season Staff's principle was play hard, but clean. His guidance along this line was very noticeable as the Eagles fought for the ball or came out of a tangle under many difficult situations as they played against several rough teams.

The highlight of the season was the victory over Catholic University in the second game the boys played together. Following closely behind this was the victory over Randolph-Macon, which was the first time The American University has beaten them in several years. All in all, the season was one of the most successful in many years. The record of wins and losses stands for itself, and the season will long remain in the memory of the players. As the trips to the opponents were always interesting and the results of the games were usually the right kind which gave rise to a spirit on the squad that will long be remembered.

Track

IN its fourth successive year of intercollegiate competition here at American University, track has been made vital and colorful sport. To see the blue and orange flash into the final stretch with other colors pressing closely, and to see a tight finish with American right there in the heat of the race, is a thrilling experience.

Our track men have worked hard to make the sport important to the school. A cinder track has made practice much easier and more beneficial this year under the careful guidance of Coach Gus Welch. The team has long needed these cinders.

Returning letter men, Bob Hill, Jim Applegate, Pete Sitnik, and Gus Hertz, led the track squad back to the spring turf and the fresh, vernal atmosphere of the track. Other veterans returning are Douglas Rollow, Johnny Stephenson, Fred Horton, Leroy Cooke, Bob Livingston, and Olie Smith.

New prospects, including especially members of the Freshman Class, show much promise for the successful future of track at A.U. Coach Welch booked a full schedule of three dual and two triple meets this season, besides entering a team in the Penn Relays. The last meet is to be the Mason-Dixon Conference at Baltimore.

Perhaps next year, with the wealth of material shaping up now, we can give any team a run for their money. In any case, the pluck and stamina of those boys representing American on the field will prove that they have the courage to fight hard.

Tennis

FOLLOWING a long series of wins climaxed by a decisive 7-2 victory over Lynchburg, American University's 1937 tennis team ended their very successful season of eleven wins against five losses by winning the Chesapeake Conference Championship for the 1937 season.

An early season start, with little practice due to bad weather, resulted in losses to Tufts, Swarthmore and Richmond. Each school, however, was represented by unusually strong teams. As the season progressed the Eagle netmen began to hit their stride and won nine of their last ten matches, ending the season with an 8 to 1 defeat of Randolph-Macon.

Walker Winter, playing number five position, captured net honors by winning nine out of his last ten matches, while Sherman Lee and Len Harris, playing alternately number one and two positions, upheld the tougher end of the schedule by winning eleven out of sixteen and nine out of fourteen single matches, respectively. Howard Hudson showed greatest promise of future tennis glory, while Carl Taylor, Wes Sarles and Jimmy Hewitt alternated at number six position in singles and doubles. Walt May, the steadiest player on the team, let his opponents make the errors, and he ended the season with wins in nine out of his sixteen singles matches.

With the return of all of last year's letter men, and the entrance of several potential Frosh netmen, the 1938 prospects look bright indeed.

Intramural Sports

THE intramural sports program for this year took on new and added importance under the direction of Coach Staff Cassell, who added several new games to the fast growing list of competitive sports already in existence. Greater interest among the men of the college in this interclass and interfraternity competition was apparent from the number of men who turned out to compete for class and individual honors in the numerous and varied sports offered.

Football opened the season, and after several closely contested games, the Seniors emerged as the champions. Howard Hudson was crowned champ of the ping-pong tournament, while Albert (Piddle) Shaw, a last year's finalist, succeeded in winning the annual horseshoe contest. An early frost brought an abrupt end to the tennis tournament, so indoor sports came into their own when the Seniors scored their second win of the year by annexing the volleyball championship.

The second semester opened with the interclass basketball series, in which the Seniors were this time defeated by a strong, never-say-die Freshman team, who scored the first interclass victory of their college career.

The interfraternity competition got under way with a "round-robin" basketball series, in which the four fraternities and the independents participated. When the smoke of the battle had cleared away, Alpha Theta Phi was discovered to be the winner and champ. This was followed by the interfraternity football, volleyball, and baseball contests, while interclass competition continued in speedball, baseball, swimming, a foul shooting contest, and the annual Field Day. The new game of Coach Gus Welch, called "Welch Ball," was introduced, and proved to be an interesting diversion.

Director of Athletics

Miss Doris Snodgrass is doing exactly what she wants to do by directing girls' athletics. She has always been interested in sports, and much of her time in the summer is spent on the Great Lakes, where she enjoys swimming and sailing.

Miss Snodgrass graduated from Oberlin College and took her graduate work in Wellesley.

Women's Intramural Sports

THIS year, interclass competition spirit was not strong; after a few games, two teams were selected to play three games, and the hockey season closed with the defeat of the Orange Team by the Blue Team.

Archery—Archery continued through the fall and showed improvement. Many more women turned out for archery than in previous years. Edith Olsen and Margurite Woodberry rated high.

Badminton—The English game continued as one of the most popular sports offered. In the class contests Helen Brundage won. The annual badminton tournament was held.

Ping-pong—A ping-pong tournament is held every spring. Many signed up for it.

Basketball—Two picked teams played against each other on Alumnae Night, March 11th. The Blue Team defeated the Orange Team by a 25-15 score in the A.U. gymnasium.

The Alumnae Team defeated the Varsity Team, 35-19. Individual honors go to Bryant, Hawks, and Shepard.

The sorority line-up places Alpha Chi Omega ahead, with Delta Gamma, Alpha Phi tied for second place.

Omicron Delta Kappa

FROM the inception of the Brahmin Honor Society in 1931, its purpose was "to recognize outstanding qualities in student activities, leadership and service, tempered by scholarship and character." From 1931 until 1936 both men and women were elected to membership in Brahmins.

When the membership in Brahmins became limited to the men of the campus, the society began to petition Omicron Delta Kappa, national honorary fraternity, which "recognizes men who have attained a high standard of efficiency in collegiate activities, brings together the most representative men in all phases of college life, and links members of the faculty and student body of the institution on the basis of mutual interest and understanding."

On May 20, 1937, the Brahmin Honor Society made a formal petition to ODK, and was awarded the Alpha Omega Circle of Omicron Delta Kappa on March 12, 1938, when Dr. Robert Bishop, Dr. R. C. McDanel, Dr. Wilbur Norcross, and Dr. R. D. McIntyre conducted the installation ceremonies in the Metropolitan Methodist Church. The charter members include:

Delta Sigma Rho

DELTA SIGMA RHO, national forensic fraternity sponsoring outstanding speech activities on the campus, elected two new members in 1937: William Powell, '37, and Jane Getz, '38, on the basis of high scholarship, two years' active work on the varsity squad, and participation in at least three intercollegiate debates.

First place in the annual all-university speech contest was won by Gilber Ramirez, with Addison Clay placing second and Charles Stewart third.

Under the direction of Mr. John Crawford and Harry Amtower, a Student Speakers' Bureau was launched to furnish competent students actual speaking experience before community organizations. Public discussions, debate lectures, panel discussions, open forums, and humorous and dramatic readings are included in the repertoire of the bureau.

The Spring Poetry Speaking Festival was also under the sponsorship of Delta Sigma Rho.

Cap and Gown

IN December of 1936 the Cap and Gown Society came into existence. It was organized as an honor society for Senior women outstanding in scholarship, leadership, character, and service. With Margaret LeMasters as its able president, the society devoted almost the entire first year to organization.

This year Cap and Gown is composed of five members—Getz, president, Maris, Laise, Taylor, and Wright. Among its undertakings have been the Backwards Party for all new women in the fall, the tea for new women coming in the second semester, and the Charm School, designed to develop charm, personality, and co-etiquette. Four prominent women in Washington spoke at the school on the subjects of beauty, clothes, manners, and health; they were Dr. Louise Taylor Jones, Miss Dorothy Principe, Mr. Charles H. Corlett, and Mrs. William Fisher.

The society's purpose is to investigate the needs of the university women and to put into operation such activities as will satisfy them. As a goal, affiliation with Mortar Board, the national senior women's extra-curricular honor society, has been chosen.

EARLY in the fall, the publications honor fraternity began its intensive campaign for nationalization. On October 2nd, at the Pi Delta Epsilon national convention, held at George Washington University, the publications honor fraternity was accepted into membership. The formal installation and initiation was held December 9th. Women were admitted to Pi Delta Epsilon this year, by an amendment of the constitution at the national convention. With this, women who are prominent in campus journalism are given a chance for honor. The charter members of The American University Chapter of Pi Delta Epsilon are Mary Aiken, Richard Callahan, Kirkley Coulter, Frank Diggs, Maynard Eicher, Lewis Frank, Jane Getz, Frank Hoadley, Worthington Houghton, Daniel Hild, Joseph Masi, Rowland Roberts, Charles Sixbey, Nellie Strong, Kathryn Taylor, and Raymond Wrenn.

Members, elected from the biology department, are chosen on the basis of superior work and a genuine interest in science.

THE group was organized under the present constitution late in the spring of 1937. Its first function of the 1937-1938 term was to draw up the rules under which rushing was to operate. After a smooth rush season, the group blended its effort with those of the Pan-Hellenic Council in sponsoring the annual Interfraternity Formal Dance, which was held on December 3, 1937. The purpose of the organization is to further the interest of the members' fraternities and to help to bring about a healthier condition among both fraternity and non-fraternity men on the campus. Although an infant under its present constitution, the Interfraternity Council has the hope and the potentiality of becoming one of the leading organizations of the college.

FOUNDED on November 23, 1928, as the first Greek letter fraternity on The American University campus, Alpha Theta Phi has continued since that time to stand as a symbol of fellowship and leadership on the campus. Under the present financial set-up, the fraternity has a building fund, a nationalization fund and a policy of no assessments to members.

Social activities for the year got under way with an after-dance party on October 31st in nearby Virginia. A banquet at Childs followed by a smoker on November 17th, and the annual Founder's Day banquet in the college dining hall on November 23rd, plus a swimming party at the Shoreham.

The second semester social activities started with a smoker at Wes Sarles' on February 8th, and a skating party at Silver Spring Rink on February 22nd. On March 13th formal initiation of the new pledges was inacted, and annual Mother's Day tea followed on May 3rd, preceded by the high-spot of the year, the formal dance on May 7th.

LAMBDA TAU SIGMA, formerly known as the Jesters Club, and the oldest fraternity on the campus, began a year of varied activities with a novel rushing program followed by a large reunion dinner on Homecoming Day for all alumni and current members.

This year a bi-weekly fraternity paper, the Lambda, with J. Franklin Diggs as editor, was begun, which includes news, plans, suggestions, and humor.

Monthly social functions were held throughout the year. The week-end parties were held at Annapolis, and other functions were in the form of swimming parties and get-togethers.

Second semester officers were elected in February. These consisted of Lindsey Branson, president; Frank Diggs, vice-president; Peter Sitnik, secretary; and John Stephenson, treasurer.

The fraternity formal party was held on April 29th. The Lambda Tau Sigma basketball team won two games against other fraternity quintets.

PHI EPSILON ALPHA, American University's youngest fraternity, was founded January 19, 1937. Hence the record of this organization has been brief, but impressive; every branch of extra-curricular activity has found expression here. The former president of the Sophomore Class, the president of the Junior Class, and the Student Comptroller are fellow-members. The Chorus and Glee Club, athletics, varsity debating, dramatics, and publications have found talent from the rank of the "Phi Eps."

Scholastically the fraternity has made a high rating; at its inception it out-ranked its nearest competitor for semester honors and is at present pacing all fraternities.

The aims of Phi Epsilon Alpha are closely connected with the future of The American University. It is the earnest desire of the fraternity that it may foster the policies and ideals for which the school stands. As it gains firmer footing and wider experience in the scholastic-social world, Phi Epsilon Alpha is determined to work cooperatively and creatively for the good of the entire student body and faculty.

THE first part of the Phi Sigma Kappa fraternity social season was devoted to a strenuous rushing program. Smokers, bowling parties, picnic outings, and an extended week-end stay at Annapolis Roads Club comprised the program. Informal get-togethers twice a month were continued for the remainder of the year.

The fraternity informal was held at the Annapolis Roads Club in honor of a group of rushees. Corsages were given to the girls as party favors.

Numerous joint gatherings were held with the George Washington University Chapter at their house. Thanksgiving evening, Epsilon Triton helped entertain visiting brothers from Gamma Triton of the University of Southern California at the Lambda Chapter House.

Founder's Day banquet was held March 15th at the 2900 Connecticut Avenue; Surgeon General Parron was the principal speaker.

The fraternity had its annual Magenta and Silver Formal at the Washington Golf and Country Club on April 23rd.

PAÑHELLENIC COUNCIL in its second year of existence has assumed the leadership of women's activities on campus. This group, composed of presidents and representatives of the college sororities, directed its efforts this year toward the fields of scholarship, leadership, and school songs. At the beginning of the year a tea was held in the Women's Residence Hall for all new women.

In March the council sponsored the annual songfest to interest the student body in the writing of original songs. Three prizes were awarded in the contest.

To encourage scholarship, the Panhellenic Council offered a silver cup to the Freshman fraternity woman having the highest scholastic average for the year.

ALPHA CHI OMEGA, national women's fraternity, was founded at De Pauw University on the fifteenth of October, 1885. Since then sixty-three chapters have been formed; of these, Beta Rho at American University is the sixty-second.

First rushing of Beta Rho Chapter met with very pleasing results. On the twenty-third of October twelve of the American University girls spent a delightful week-end at the Beta Delta Chapter House at William and Mary College. At the Homecoming fane on November 6th, the chapter gave orange and blue shakers to aid in the welcome of the University Alumni. The informal dance, held at the Wesley Heights Club on December 10th, was very successful. Three more girls were pledged in February. March 1st, known as Hera Day to all Alpha Chi's, was recognized by the entertaining of children from the Community Center at the Zoo. A Golden Jubilee tea for all Alpha Chi Omegas in Washington and Baltimore was held in honor of Mrs. Morrison, one of the first presidents of Alpha Chapter, on Tuesday, March 15th. A fitting conclusion to the year's activities was the formal dance held at the National Women's Country Club on April 8th.

ALPHA PHI international fraternity was established in 1872 at Syracuse University. In the autumn of 1937 the thirty-seventh chapter, Beta Xi, was installed at The American University.

This year has been a busy one for the new chapter. The formal installation banquet of Beta Xi was held early in October at the Mayflower Hotel. Shortly afterwards the Alpha Phi Alumnae of Washington held a reception for the new chapter members and their families at the Women's Residence Hall.

After rushing, the alumnae entertained the members and pledges at an informal evening party. December brought the informal dance at the National Women's Country Club. Thoughts turned to others during the Christmas season; the sorority contributed to Gordon Hittenmark's Doll House, and gave toys to hospitals.

After midyear exams came the initiation of the new pledges and the formal initiation banquet at the Hotel Raleigh. Several "at homes" and sorority functions have been held in the chapter room during the season. The year's activities were brought to a climax in May with the formal dance at the Washington Golf and Country Club.

AFTER an eventful summer Beta Epsilon of Delta Gamma returned to engage in a most successful rush season, which they climaxed with a supper at the home of Mrs. Northcutt Ely in Leesburg, Virginia.

A visit from the Province Secretary, Mrs. J. Norman Ingerle, was the occasion for a tea and luncheon early in November. Later in the month the chapter held its informal at the National Women's Country Club in Maryland.

With Christmas approaching, the group became philanthropical and helped a poor family. In contrast to this they were entertained by the pledges at a party at the home of Tina Marsh. The girls got together during the holidays for a Chinese luncheon.

In the nature of a reward for standing first scholastically on campus, the Washington Alumni Chapter entertained the active chapter with a supper at the Wesley Heights Club.

March 12th was the date of the annual Founder's Day banquet, which was preceded by the initiation service.

The chapter concluded its activities for the year with its spring formal held on April 8th at the Washington Golf and Country Club.

PHI MU was the first fraternity on the campus to become national. In 1933 Phi Sigma Beta became the Gamma Delta Chapter of Phi Mu.

This year the rush season opened with a formal tea, followed by a circus party, an Alice-in-Wonderland at-home, and a hay-ride to Rixey Mansion.

Pledge Day a chow-mien luncheon was given in the room for the new pledges. A few nights later a formal dinner with corsages for the pledges continued the celebration.

Beth Smith entertained the group at a Hallowe'en party, and in November, the pledges gave a tea for their mothers to meet their big sisters in the fraternity.

At Christmas time the fraternity furnished a poor family with clothes, food, toys, and money.

For the Homecoming dance Phi Mu fixed up the men's ping-pong room in the gymnasium with rugs, lamps, chairs, and mirrors so that it could be used as a powder room. The idea was such a success that one group or another has taken over the work at every succeeding dance.

The spring formal, the senior's breakfast, the Founder's Day banquet at the Kennedy Warren completed the year's activities.
